Inconsistency were found in the answer to questions V96 a V99 y V100 a V103. For example in the V96 and V99 individuals said that they did not do certain political actions but then said that they did them during the last 5 years. Because no instructions were given to resolve these possible inconsistency, we include both of them; the original variables and the ones were the answers are made consistent. These can be found in the variables VV96, VV97, VV98, VV99, VV100, VV101, VV102 y VV103.

Sample:

Covering 30 cities over 40.000 inhabitants, all 18 years and over from Arica to Puerto Montt in the continental part of the territory 1. Selection of Census Sub-districts (PSU): For all cities/communities included in the sample, census sub-districts (geographical areas with about 2000 habitants) are selected proportionally to the number of interviews within the locality. Depending on the territorial area covered by each census sub district in each one of them are applied between 5 and 13 interviews. For each census sub district was designed a random route that the interviewer must follow. This means that each interviewer has a map, with the route marked randomly of the part of the sub district that he must interview. 2. Household Selection: Once the interviewer was in field he must register the households in his route. Once this was done each household was selected with systematic random selection. 3. Interviewee Selection: Members of the household from 18 years to 85 years, was selected by last birthday systems.
