ABSTRACT:

The victims of crime survey was the first national study of its kind in South Africa. Prior to this study diverse research had been conducted on victims of crime, but these studies did not cover the entire country. In particular, they did not include rural areas. The only information available on criminal activities in the country as a whole was through police and court records. While these records were highly valuable resources of statistics about criminal activity, they relied largely on the extent to which the reporting of crimes took place. Those incidents, which were not reported by victims, remained unknown and unrecorded. Police and court records allowed for the monitoring of policing and of the criminal justice system.

An important supplementary way of gaining understanding of crimes, and of improving planning for crime prevention, was by speaking to citizens to find out about their experiences of crime and the criminal justice system. Through the victims' survey such as this one, it was possible to examine the extent of reporting of crime and to learn about the perceptions that different people have about the police and police services. Furthermore this survey aimed to:

- ❖ Conduct the first national benchmark household victimisation survey in South Africa
- ❖ Collect information to feed into the National Crime Prevention Strategy (NCPS) on the nature, extent and patterns of crime from the perspective of victims
- ❖ Examine the extent of crime reporting for different types of crimes
- ❖ Obtain a picture of the perceptions that members of the public hold of police and policing
- ❖ Look at the type of support structures that exist for victims of crime
- ❖ Determine the crime prevention measures that South Africans use, and
- ❖ Compare, where possible South African crime patterns and reporting behaviour with those in other countries.

GEOGRAPHIC LOCATION: South Africa

IMPORTANT VARIABLES:

Patterns and extent of crime, types of crime, reporting of crime, citizens' perceptions about police and police services

DEMOGRAPHIC VARIABLES:

Age, gender, highest level of education, marital status, living area, type of dwelling, language, population group.

UNIVERSE:

Households in the nine provinces of South Africa.

METHOD OF DATA COLLECTION:

Survey questionnaire was used for data collection. The questionnaire used for the survey was based on the standard international questionnaire with certain modifications. The international questionnaire covered eleven main crimes that is theft of a car or other motor vehicle, theft from a car or other vehicle, car vandalism, theft of a motor cycle or scooter, theft of a bicycle, burglary or housebreaking, attempted burglary, robbery with force, personal theft, sexual incidents and assault and two supplementary crimes (consumer fraud and corruption). In the South African questionnaire, the following crimes were added on the recommendation of the advisory committee to meet specific South African needs: theft of livestock, poultry and other animals, hijacking or attempted hijacking of vehicles, deliberate damage, burning or destruction of dwellings and deliberate killing or murder.

UNITS OF OBSERVATION: Households

DATE OF DATA COLLECTION:

Fieldwork was conducted over a two-week period, between 16 and 27 March 1998.

EXTENT OF DATA COLLECTION: 2 data files in SPSS and hardcopy documentation and questionnaire.

VICTIMS OF CRIME 1998: METADATA

GENERAL NOTES

This document contains the sample design, how the weights were calculated and the classification of crime.

Sample Design

The sample consisted of 4 000 people aged 16 years or more. It was drawn in three stages.

- Firstly, a probability sample of 800 enumerator area (EAs) was drawn, as demarcated for the 1996 population census. This sample was stratified explicitly by province, and implicitly by the 42 police districts of the country.
- Secondly, within each of the 800 EAs, five households were selected for interviewing, using systematic sampling.
- Thirdly, one respondent aged 16 years or more was selected to be interviewed in each of the five households in each of the sampled in each sampled EA. This person was chosen using a table of random numbers. Once a respondent had been selected, fieldworkers were instructed to make sure that they interviewed only that specific person and nobody else. In case of non-contacts with that person, repeated call backs(at least three) had to be made. There were no substitutions for refusal or non-contact.

Weights

The 1996 population census formed the basis for weighting the data to population of the country. Two different sets of weights were used for this study, i.e. household and individual weights

- The questions posed on crimes committed against the households were weighted to the population of households in the country, while those concerning crimes committed against Individuals were weighted to the population of individuals aged 16 years or more.
- Factors taken into account in weighting households were province, police area and EA type (urban formal, urban informal, non-urban traditional, commercial farms and other types of non-urban areas.

Below is the method of calculation.

Weights were calculated by using the reciprocal of the inclusion probabilities.

Since the sample selection was done in three stages

(i.e. First stage - selection of an EA

Second stage - selection of a household in the selected EA

Third stage - selection of the respondent in the selected household), the inclusion probabilities were calculated as follows:

The inclusion probability of an EA (say p_1):

Since this was done with probability proportional to size (size being the number of persons residing in the EA),

$$p_1 = \frac{m \cdot A_i}{\sum A_i}$$

m - number of EAs in the stratum¹
 A_i - number of persons residing in the selected EA
 $\sum A_i$ - number of person in the stratum

The inclusion probability of the household (say p_2) :

Since five (5) households (per EA) were selected systematically,

$$p_2 = \frac{5}{\text{number of households in the selected EA}}$$

The inclusion probability of the respondent (say p_3) :

This was done using simple random sampling, and due to the variation in the number of qualifying persons (people aged 16+) in the selected household, we calculated p_3 as follows :

$$p_3 = \frac{\text{number of respondents per EA}}{\text{number of qualifying persons in the selected households (per EA)}}$$

Household weight = $(1/p_1.p_2)$. Relative scaling was done on this weight to cater for the urban/non-urban split per stratum.

Person weight = $(1/p_1.p_2.p_3)$. Relative scaling was also done on this weight to cater for the population group and gender splits, and also for the population growth.

The Central Statistical Service (CSS), South Africa's official statistics agency, on behalf of the Department of Safety and Security and in conjunction with the United Nations, is presently conducting a survey to determine the extent of crime in the country.
