I. About BOOST

A core function of any government involves collecting and disbursing public funds and maintaining records of such expenditures. Budget execution systems vary greatly in terms of their organization, transparency, accuracy, and level of detail. For researchers, the ability to easily access and analyze public expenditure data is key to providing thorough and timely advice to policymakers and relevant stakeholders. For government officials, rapid access to budget execution data in an easy-to-use format is essential for better decision-making and increasing analytical capacity within ministries.

The purpose of the BOOST project is to enhance the transparency and efficiency of public spending across the globe by improving access to government expenditure data and linking spending to relevant results. As of June 2015, the BOOST team has collected and processed detailed government expenditure data from more than a dozen countries across the Europe and Central Asia region, creating easy-to-use databases that have been employed by World Bank researchers on a variety of projects.

In Armenia, the BOOST government expenditure database has been constructed using the data available on Armenia's Ministry of Finance's website. This manual describes the resulting database and provides the information necessary to analyze Armenia's public expenditures.

This document is organized into the following sections:

Part II outlines the Armenian budget structure;

Part III presents the organization of the database;

Part IV provides examples of how to use BOOST through the Excel PivotTable interface;

The Appendix contains the budget classification codes used in the BOOST.

The BOOST team would like to thank the staff of the Ministry of Finance, as well as the growing BOOST user community of researchers and policymakers who continue to provide useful feedback as this project continues to grow and improve. We hope that this tool is helpful in opening new avenues for analysis and providing answers to important questions about the efficiency, equity, and effectiveness of government spending.

II. Armenia Budget Structure

Armenia's national public budget is composed of three parts, as shown in Figure 1 below: (i) the State Budget; (ii) the Local Community Budgets and (iii) the State Social Insurance Fund, SSIF. Public expenditure in Armenia is highly centralized with the State Budget (including the social insurance budget³) accounting for approximately 97 percent of the consolidated budget⁴ in 2012.

Expenditures in the National Public Budget are classified according to the economic, functional and administrative classifications listed in the country's budget classification/ Chart of Accounts (CoA). The national budget classification contains four levels of economic classification, three levels of functional classification (division, group and class) and one level of program classification (program).

Administratively, central government spending units are classified into top-level public authorities (such as ministries) and marz administrations; meanwhile, local government authorities are represented by communities.

³ The funds previously collected in the Republic of Armenia social insurance budget have been included in the State budget since 2008.

⁴ State Budget Execution Report 2012 (MoF of Armenia).

III. Database Organization

The BOOST government expenditure database was constructed on the basis of raw treasury data that was downloaded from the website of Armenia's Ministry of Finance. Data for the State Public Budget (including transfers to local government) were extracted in XLS or DTA files covering annual expenditures for the period of 2006-2014. A sample of the raw data from one such file can be seen in Table 1 below.

The BOOST database contains variables that correspond to fields in the Ministry of Finance data that cover different types and levels of Armenia's budget classification. Each variable is labeled with a standard BOOST name that identifies the type of budget classification to which the variable corresponds—e.g., econ1 corresponds to the first (top) level of the country's economic budget classification and func1 corresponds to the first (top) level of the country's functional budget classification. A complete list of BOOST variables and descriptions can be found in Table 2 below.

Table 2. List of BOOST Variables
BOOST Variable	Variable Description
Administrative Classification Variables
admin	Level1: Agencies
Functional Classification Variables
func1	Level 1: Division
func2	Level 2: Group
func3	Level3: Class
Economic Classification Variables

Program Classification Variables

Other Classification Variables
exp_type	Expenditure Type
year	Budget Year
Budgetary Amounts
approved	Approved Budget (AMD)
adjusted	Adjusted Budget (AMD)
executed	Executed Budget (AMD)

The database contains one variable that corresponds to the administrative classification within the Armenian budget, admin. This variable specifies agencies under which the funds were spent.

Additionally, the database contains variables that correspond to the four levels of economical classification (econ1, econ2, econ3 and econ4) and three levels of functional classification (func1, func2 and func3). The program variable identifies the programs that were funded.

The database includes one additional custom variable: exp_type. The variable exp_type specifies the type of expenditures contained in a particular line of data, corresponding to the following frequently used economic spending categories: “Personnel” costs; “Non-personnel recurrent” costs⁵; “Capital” costs and “Other” if applicable. These categories were defined in order to facilitate the common analytical uses of such expenditure breakdowns.

⁵ Since most personnel expenditures are recorded under “4200 Acquisition of services and goods”, which are reflected in “Non-personnel recurrent” costs, “Personnel” costs are substantially underestimated and “Non-personnel recurrent” costs overestimated by the same amount for the period 2006-2014.

In addition, the database contains three variables that correspond to different nominal budget amounts denominated in Armenian dram: approved contains the approved budget, adjusted contains the adjusted budget, and executed contains the actual expenditure (budget execution) associated with that line item.

IV. How to Use BOOST

For ease of use, the BOOST team has developed a standard user interface through which to access the BOOST government expenditure database with the help of Excel PivotTables.

A PivotTable report is an interactive way to quickly summarize large amounts of data. A PivotTable report can be used to analyze numerical data in detail and to answer unanticipated questions about your data. A PivotTable report is especially designed for:

- Querying large amounts of data in user-friendly ways.
- Subtotaling and aggregating numeric data, summarizing data by categories and subcategories, and creating custom calculations and formulas.
- Expanding and collapsing levels of data to focus your results, and drilling down to details from the summary data for areas of interest to you.
- Moving rows to columns or columns to rows (or “pivoting”) to see different summaries of the source data.
- Filtering, sorting, grouping, and conditionally formatting the most useful and interesting subset of data to enable you to focus on the information that you want.
- *Presenting concise, attractive, and annotated online or printed reports.*⁶

PivotTables are straightforward and easy to use and allow for quick, customizable analyses of large amounts of data. This section presents several examples on how to use the BOOST PivotTable interface for general and custom reports.⁷

⁷ The minimum technical requirements for using the Armenia BOOST government expenditure database are as follows: (i) a computer with at least 1 GB of RAM (2 GB preferred); (ii) Microsoft Excel version 2007 or later (or similar database software that allows loading of files with at least one million lines of data).

Example 1: Time Trend Analysis

Figure 2 below presents a simple example of time trend analysis at the macro level. It reports (in nominal terms) the Ministry of Economy's expenditures from 2006 to 2014, broken down by the two top-levels in the functional classification. To generate this PivotTable, func1 and func2 are placed in the "Row Labels" box, year in the "Column Labels" box. The values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the executed variable. In addition to this, admin is placed in the "Report Filter" box. Then above the table, in dropdown menu found in the admin row, you click on "104004 Ministry of Economy".

Example 2: Composition Breakdown

Figure 3 below presents a breakdown of 2012 state expenditures by economic category and sub-categories for education in Armenia. To generate this PivotTable, econ1, econ2, econ3 and econ4 are placed in the “Row Labels” box, func1 in the “Column Labels” box. Finally year (“2012”) and func1 (“09 Education”) variables are used as filters. The values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the executed variable.

Example 3: Geographic Variation

Figure 4 below presents a breakdown of 2010 capital expenditures⁸ by marzes and sectors. To generate this PivotTable, admin and func1 are placed in the “Row Labels box, exp_type in the “Column Labels” box, and year (“2010”), and admin variables are used as filters. The values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the executed variable.
