Canadian Facts

Fieldwork Period:

03-08-2000 - 24-09-2000.

Universe:

National Population, Both sexes,18 and more years

Sample size:

1931

Estimated Error:

2,3

Questionnaire:

The WVS questionnaire was translated from the English questionnaire by a specialist translator and a member of the research team. The translated questionnaire was back-translated into English and the translated questionnaire was also pre-tested. It was used the English version for outside Quebec and the French version for Quebec. There have been some country-specific questions included in addition to a series of questions on Canadas relationship with the United States that preceded the demographic items, an item asking respondents Canadian pride was included after v162e.

Sample:

The sample was designed to be representative of the entire adult population, i.e. 18 years and older, of your country. The lower age cut-off for the sample was 18 and there was not any upper age cut-off for the sample. The WVS sample was distributed across all provinces of Canada, with the exception of those in the following:1. The Yukon, Northwest Territories, and Labrador. 2. All Indian Reservations. 3. Households in EAs located in remote areas of the country. The various groups excluded account for about 3% of the people in Canada aged 18 years and older. Regionally, the sample was distributed disproportionately to ensure that samples were adequate for cross-regional comparisons. The sample was distributed across all community sizes, down to and including rural locations. Within each region, the sample was distributed proportionately by community size. A total of six strata were created to organize the distribution of sample by community size. In constructing a probability sample of this universe, the following conditions are met: 1. Each household in the universe has some known probability of selection. 2. No arbitrary judgment is exercised in determining which households are included, or which individual in each household is interviewed. A total of 1931 households were selected from 313 primary sampling units (EAs) widely spread throughout Canada. The sampling operation was performed at four distinct stages: 1. Determination of the numbers of primary sampling units (EAs) to be selected in each stratum. 2. Selection of EAs. 3. Selection of households. 4. Selection of one individual per household. 1. Selection of Primary Sampling Points. Cumulative EA household counts are computed within each community and the required number of PSUs is systematically selected. A random starts and fixed interval method allows each EA a chance of selection proportionate to the number of households therein. 2. Selection of Households. Households are given an equal chance of selection in each EA. Statistics Canada EA maps are reproduced. Boundaries are clearly marked, start points, skip intervals and travel direction designated. Start points and start households are randomly chosen in each case. 3. Selection of One Individual per Household. The final stage involves the selection of the one individual in each household to be interviewed. The procedure involves listing all individuals 18 years of age and over in each household. The random selection of one respondent is controlled by a selection grid.

Remarks about sampling:
-Final numbers of clusters or sapling points: 1931 -Sample unit from office sampling: Household

Survey procedure:
Personal Face to Face Interview

Fieldwork:
Control of the WVS field staff was directed from Canadian Facts' head office in Toronto. All field and office supervisory staff reported to the WVS project national field director. The office staff included one field director in the Vancouver office, two in the Montreal office and two in the Toronto office. Additionally, the field staff included 15 regional supervisors. The responsibilities of the national field director included: Briefing and training of all supervisory staff; Regular performance monitoring; Preparation of weekly field status reports; Co-ordination of shipping survey materials; Quality control of all interviewing procedures; Organization of a minimum (10%) head office verification on all fieldwork; Investigation and reporting on all verification problems. The responsibilities of the office and regional field supervisors included: Briefing and training of all interviewers; Performance monitoring of all interviewers; Weekly reporting of field status; Review of completed interviews to ensure that procedures were correctly followed; Continuous liaison with interviewers so that specific problems could be transmitted to the national field director and resolved with minimum delay; Initial verification of at least one interview from each assigned location; A completeness check on all interviews. All supervisory staff were personally briefed by the WVS national field director. Briefings involved a full review of training and monitoring procedures required at the interviewer level. All interviewers were also briefed in person by trained supervisory staff. The training sessions always included the conduct of test interviews. Interviewers were required to conduct a minimum of one test interview among friends or relatives as a means of ensuring complete familiarity with procedures before commencement of actual fieldwork. All interviewers received a copy of a special WVS training manual prepared by Canadian Facts. The precise written instructions clearly outline all survey requirements, call-back procedures, and questionnaire administration instructions. Call-back procedures were designed to optimize expenditures of field resources for this study. The number of call-backs was initiated at different times of the day and on different days of the week to maximize completion rates. The number of calls made to each selected household varied by community size within region stratum as follows: Number of Personal Attempts 1. Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver 5 2. Quebec City, Ottawa/Hull, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton 4 3. Remaining Communities 100K and over 4 4. Communities 10-100K 3 5. Communities under 10K 2 As a further means of boosting response rates, some additional calls were made to "not-at-homes." Furthermore, after every attempt to gain co-operation, some locations with low completion rates were re-cycled to a special team of interviewers who followed up after a 2 or 3 week hiatus. Completed questionnaires were always reviewed by supervisors prior to their return to head office. Incomplete or improperly conducted interviews were returned to the field for completion by either the same or, if necessary, a different interviewer. Interviewers were required to complete report forms for each assigned location. On-going tallies provided supervisory staff with the information necessary to re-assign work or address particular problems. In Montreal, Ottawa/Hull, Northern New Brunswick and designated areas in Northern Ontario, bilingual interviewers were used. The validation of interviewing by Canadian Facts took place immediately after conduct of field work. Field supervisors were required to verify at least one interview from each assigned location. Upon receipt of each assignment, further reviews were carried out by senior field staff at Canadian Facts' head office in Toronto. A minimum of 1 in 20 interviews was verified from each interviewers work. Approximately 10% of the interviews were supervised and 10% were back-checked.

Response rate:
A total of 1,931 personal in-home interviews was completed. Based on total contacts of 4,201, a response rate of 46% percent was achieved. All interviewing for the study was conducted between August 3 and September 24, 2000.The following table presents completion rate results: - Record Of Calls: (4,201) (100%) - No One At Home 789 (19 %) -Household Refusal 884 (21%) - Selected Respondent Refusal 466 (11%) - No Adult 18 Years + At Home 40 (1%) - Language Problem 66 (1%) - Broke Off Interview 25 (1%) - Completed Interviews 1931 (46%)

The better paid secretary, however, is quicker, more efficient and more reliable at her job. In your opinion, is it fair or not fair that one secretary is paid more than the other?

French
Voici maintenant une situation en milieu de travail. Il s'agit de deux secrétaires qui ont le même âge et qui font pratiquement le même travail. Une des secrétaires découvre que l'autre est considérablement mieux payée. La secrétaire la mieux payée est toutefois plus rapide, plus efficace et plus responsable que l'autre au travail.
