ABSTRACT

UNHCR plays a leading role, collaborating with States and other partners, to promote, facilitate, and coordinate voluntary repatriation in safety and dignity. This durable solution of the organization is an end-to-end process including negotiations with the States involved, supporting the transportation of the refugees to a safe location within their country of origin, monitoring their situation upon return, promoting their inclusion, supporting their reintegration, and collaborating with other development organization in livelihood interventions in their area of return. In 2019, as part of the Protection monitoring activities, UNHCR conducted an assessment of the reintegration situation of returnees in 3 prefectures of Central African Republic (Lobaye, Mambere-Kadei, Nana-Mambere) from which 593 Returnees were selected and interviewed. The data was collected by the UNHCR partner ASA and it contains information related to the reason of return, their access to services locally, occupation, main source of income and other information useful to understand their situation.
